ARCH BRIDGES AND ROOFS.

ARCH BRIDGES AND ROOFS.
THESE Bridges and Roofs have now been fully tested. In this vicinity, and it is universally conceded that they cannot be excelled. The Roofs are wholly of Wrought Iron, or mixture of Wood and Iron; Sheeting always Iron.

The Bridges are wholly Wrought Iron except the floor, which is wood, like the floors of ordinary Bridges. We are prepared to make these structures in any quantities, at prices about as follows:
Railroud Bridges, 50 foet span, 8,000 lbs, $17.50 per foot lineal.

Common Rond or Turnpike, 50 feet span, 2,600 lbs., $5.75 per foot lineal.

Roofs, all Iron, 50 feet width of building, $25 per 100 square feet, part wood and part iron, from $12 to $20 per square.

square feet, part wood and part iron, from $12 to $20 per square.

Increase of span of bridges or width of buildings makes an increase of price, but the increase in price is no more than the increase of wooden structures.

We can furnish Iron of every size to work into Bridges and Boofs, and Baltronds or other companies buying the right to use them and the iron of us, can make their own structures one third less than the above prices. Our structures welgh only trom 1-4 to I-10 that of wood; difference in freight in a long distance buys our work. In a few days we will have at our Factory, 497 West Third street, in this city, four different specimens of our Roof, where the public can inspect them to their satisfaction. We beg them to give us a call, as all our work is warraated, and we ask no pay on ordinary jobs until the work is done and approved, payments being secured on contracting. Gentlemen:—Having made a particular examination of Goodrich's "History of All Nations," I am free to say, that I know of no work, great or small, that contains half the amount of useful and entertaining matter for family reading. It is written in Mr. Goodrich's best etyle. It is a library, a historical library of Itself; and It is worth, according to the usual cost of good reading, two or three times the monoy you ask for it. It is no wonder that you have to keep a power press running constantly to supply the orders for these volumes; for the public have only to know their value to make them a universal want with all classes.

I am, gentlemen, most respectfully yours,
B. F. TEFFT.

I think it eminently deserving of the public patronage. It is necessarily brief; but it brings under review, with its admirable illustrations, the principal subjects worthy of attention in all natious, and to the young especially, it is invaluable.

I have been famililar with Mr. Goodrich's writings for many years, and have the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with him; and think him admirably qualified for imparting instruction in a way that brings it within the reach of the common unind.

The suljoined "charge" was not written for the present time, a fact which is evident from that other fact, that we cut it from an old file of the Laneaster Intelligencer, into which it was copied from the London Punch about fifteen years ago. Notwithstanding the antiquity of the document, we consider it, in some respects a "model" charge-it, at least, possessing the merit of leaving the jury unbiased in their deliberations upon a verdict:

Church Dedication.

The new building of the Methodist Church in Frankfort, will be dedicated on the next Sabbath, 19th inst., at 11 o'clock, A. M.

Rev. Dr. PARSONS will preach on the occa sion. The public are respectfully invited.

THE LEXINGTON FAIR commenced on yester day, and will continue until Friday evening. ORDER OF EXHIBITION.

On yesterday, (the first day,) Domestic Manu factures, Agricultural implements, carriages, bug gles, harness, agricultural products, &c., were

2d Day-To-day, cattle, sheep, and hogs. 3d Day-Thursday, blooded horses, mules and iack stock

4th Day-Friday, saddle and harness horses, &c A special train of cars will leave Frankfort every day of the fair, at 20 minutes after seven, A. M., and arrive at Lexington at 9 A. M. Re turning, leaves Lexington in the evening at 40 minutes past 4 o'clock, reaching here at 6 o'clock and twenty minutes, so that all who wish to at tend the fair can go up and return each day for about the same that it would cost to remain in Lexington during the fair.

Mesers. OLIVER, DITSON, & Co., music publishers of Boston have sent us a new song enti tled "The Spirit Messengers," dedicated to Miss Lelia V. Howard. The music is by F. B. Huber and the words by a Kentucky Poet. We are no judge of music but learn from others that this is a very sweet song. Messrs. D. & Co., will accept our thanks for it.

ARTHUR'S HOME MAGAZINE .-- This excellent monthly for October, is on our table. We think it is one of the best literary publications which we receive. It does not give as large a number of pages as some of the other Magazines, but the quality of the articles is very superior, particularly as to their moral tone; and it is a cheaper magazine than most of the monthlies. We can safely recommend ARTHUR to our friends, particularly to those who have children who are fond of reading.

We are indebted to Messrs. D. P. FAULDS & Co., of Louisville for a copy of "The Crab Orchard Quadrilles" arranged by R. Strauss These quadrilles are well known to those who have heard Strauss' Band; they are inscribed to COVINGTON DISTRICT-T. P. C. SHELLMAN, P. E. Miss. Mildred Ewing, of Louisville, one of the farest Belles of the Falls city, and Miss Carrie Hodges, of Frankfort, one of our sweetest young lady friends. Messrs. F. & Co., will accept our thanks.

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES .- A good Sewing Machine at a low price has long been a desideratum, and is now attained in the Nettleton & Raymond Patent. This is a two thread Machine of remarkably simple construction, and does the same work as the best $100 Machines. Any one of ordinary comprehension can understand and learn to use it successfully in a few hours prac tice. The stitch is the best made by Machinery, and is superior to the best hand sewing It is very elastic, and therefore not liable to break by any strain in washing or otherwise. The sewing will not rip, though every fourth be cut.

The Machine runs thread, (cotton, silk, or linen,) from common spools, and finishes its own seam, no "fastening off" being necessary as in most other Machine sewing.

Price of Machine and table, complete, $30, and can be seen at Mr. Clarke's Ambrotype Gallery, adjoining the Telegraph office.

From the Kentucky Farmer.

Railroad and Agricultural Societies. A sense of reciprocal dependence and mutual interest should cause these two institutions to be the most friendly colaborers at all times.

The farmer alone creates new products, the mechanic only changes them. If the farmer is unsuccessful and produces noising, the merchant has nothing to exchange, and of course the Rail road has little or nothing to transport.

The object of Agricultural Societies is to stim ulate and increase production, and to promote the sale and dissemination of the products, whether vegetadle, animal, or cereal.

All testimony concurs that their object is most successfully accomplished. Their influence is most extensive and most salutary almost without qualification.

While the Societies thus create an immense business for Railroads, it is the obvious duty as well as the in terest of Railroads to co operate with, and to help to promote them.

The Society is but a contribution by the far-mer, chiefly of his time and money, for the general welfare, in which the merchant and the railroad participate. It is the duty therefore of the railroad to aid in promoting this general wel-

It has been supposed that it is the policy of the railroad to neglect this duty, and leave the labor and expense of getting up Agricultural Fairs to be borne by the farmers themselves. But this is a mistaken view, and a short sighted policy, for the loss of corns will be a rich the success of the farmers the corn of the labor to the corn of the loss of corns will be a rich the success of the farmers in compensation for the loss of corns will be a rich there is no limit to the success of the farmers in production and the Fair will be great, just in flow. In several cases there are large additions

If the railroad can make $500, out of a Fair which is gotten up and sustained by the farmers to five feet from this alluvial sediment, upon his alone, the railroad might also make five thousand dollars by a liberal co-operation with the best soil to his plantation. Two, three, and five

The poverty of the railroad constitutes no good reason for a contrary course, for the more needy it is the more enterprising it should be in the development of all its resour-

States for many years, and the sooner it is also adopted by the railroads in Kentucky, the better

We have seen a pack of complimentary cards by which the Corresponding Secretary of the Ohio State Agricultural Society could travel free over almost all of the principal railroads of the United States. We were ashamed to see that he had no card from a Kentucky rail

It affords us pleasure to say that the Lexing-

"The Railroad Companies have given good evidence of their interest in the Fair, by a liberal subscription in money, and the free transporta-tion of lumber and all other materials necessary in fitting up the grounds for the Fair. The Illinois Central Company have also engaged to fur nish any number of cars that may be required for sleeping accommodations. They will have all saved. on the ground for that purpose two miles and a half of cars on the side track. They will give, half of cars on the side track. They will give, for the same purpose, the upper stories of their extensive machine factories, together with the but one.

station houses at Odin and Tonti.
"With unexampled liberality for the conven ence of guests, the Illinois Central will run free trains, night and morning, during the Fair from the Fair grounds to Jonesboro. and from the Fair grounds to Decatur, one hundred miles in each direction, that the towns on the line may have an opportunity to contribute their aid in ac commodating visitors."

A FEARFUL RUNAWAY AT THE CONNERSVILLE FAIR .-- On Wednesday night, about half past nine, while the crowd was returning from the exhibition of fire works at the County Fair, at Connersville, a frightened horse created one of the most fearful panies we ever witnessed. It was very dark, so dark, that it was impossible to see any object more than a few yards away. The street was crowded with carriages and the sidewalks filled with a most compact procession of pedestrians. There must have been fully thousand people along the walk, and they were fence. In this state of affairs a horse attached to a "sulky" got scared, it is said, by a collision with an omnibus in the dark, and ran away.

Trying in his fright to avoid the cavriages in the street, he dashed into the crowd upon the sidewalk, and, with the sulky wbirling and leaping far up from the ground at every jump, for more than a hundred yards, right the sulky work. mass of men and women. We heard the scream ing when the horse first struck the walk in the ing when the horse first struck the walk in the rear of our position in the crowd, and thought it only the usual fuss of a holiday; but the scream ing came nearer, and grew more fearful each moment, till we heard the crashing of the horse against the tree boxes and the rushing of the people to either hand, mixed with the shricks, right behind us, when, understanding the alarm, right behind us, when, understanding the alarm, right behind us, when ight be some danger, we dashed by, throwing down several persons who had been walking immediately in front of us.

For a moment there was a confusion of dust, of figures in white dresses whilling about as if in a tornado, of men scuffling about on the ground, and the whole enveloped in a tempest of screaming that made any inquiry as to the extent of the injury done impossible. A little boy lay on the walk close by us, whom we took up, and found motionless and senseless. We thought him dead. His face was covered with blood and dust. His "WITH A WILL."—We often hear of things lone "with a will." The phrase is expressive of all that is conveyed by the words purpose, detail that is conveyed by the words purpose, and the words purpose is the words purpose in the words purp should be in the development of all its resources.

If our Kentucky railroads have not taken this view of this subject, and have not acted upon it, we are persuaded it is for the want only of more careful investigation, and more ample experience in the matter. For the purpose of inviting their more careful investigation, and their more liberal and wiser policy, we make the following attentions of the state of their more careful investigation, and their more liberal and wiser policy, we make the following attentions of the state of their more careful investigation, and their more liberal and wiser policy, we make the following attentions of the state of their more careful investigation, and their more liberal and wiser policy, we make the following attentions of the purpose, determination, resolution.
